John C. Maroonay's Death Bushles Them to Run Down Big Bunch of Crooks,

FOR REVENGE

Was Barkeeper for

Jacobs, Another Convict

With Long Record.

The police of the Pursus errest, Broships, station were gind to learn that John C. Maremer, forty-dix years old, excessivist, and bartender in William M. Jacobs, and been shot dead, tiffed by a fellow crook on the threshold of the saloon at £15 A. M. tooks, They made no excuses for that low when all the participants in the saloon at £15 A. M. Tooks, They made no excuses for that low when all the participants in the saloon and fun fighters who were taken handouffed from the saloon of the shooting.

sem and Patrolman Cone, who were reveal blocks away from the Jacobs alson. They ran for the place, and aldway encountered John Layden, try-three years old, who says he at No. St Adams street. They him to the saloon, where on the walk before the "Ladies" know" the body of Marconey was lobed out with a revolver baside. He had gone through his right eye, ring the brain.

BOOR OF THE SALOON BARRED AGAINST POLICE.

AGAINST POLICE.

The door of the saloon was barriended and no response was given to the order to open. The policemen broke the door in and feund Daniel Mechan, ax-convict; Harry Burke, ex-convict, and a man named McGowan barring the way. McGowan is thick set and powerful. He attacked the pelicemen and was clubbed unconsolous. The others were cowed with drawn revolvers. Also, as usually happens, there were "ladler" present—Anna Sommers and Cathasine Knack, two bedraggied creatures who hewled and wept over the dead body on the addernals.

der. Especially stirring was the story May. 1892, when he was sent to since the bartender had been lured to Sing for eight years. All told he had the sidewalk in order that no one might see the shooting. Jacobs the proprietor, is a crook who served time with Marconney in fins fling and it is there the friendship between the two began.

When Jacobs took out a license in the same of his wife, Annette, he invited hardeneds, who was out on ball facing a charge of grand larceny, to act as bartender. The place was used as a bartender. The place was used as a bartender. The place was used as a recort for sallors coming down from the Sands stret gate of the Navy Tard. A week ago several sallors were dancing the turkey trot to the time of a battered electric plane in the back room. Something in the dancing annoyed Jacobs, who, so the police allegs, drew a revelver and shot Frank 6. Pfeister of the U. & & Topopah. Jacobs was arrested and is new out on fail. A few days later there was a knife fight in the rear room the details of which the police have not been able to get.

Sing for eight years. All told he had spent nineteen years in prison.

MAN'S BODY FOUND IN RIVER.
